Hey Liz,

WSJ has published the name of the contractor EPA used during the Gold King Mine spill: <http://www.wsj.com/articles/epa-contractor-involved-in-colorado-spill-identified-as-environmental-restoration-1439414672>

Why didn't the agency disclose the identity of the contractor? They've gotten about $364 million from EPA in the last eight years. Will EPA let them go?
